

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of aligning a print image of an electrophotographic machine, the method including the steps of determining a power level of a laser beam, sensing a synch position of the laser beam associated with the scan line and varying a delay time before starting the scan line dependent upon the power level and the synch position.

5